- 27- 2nd Grade Field Day

It's hard to believe February is coming to an end. Even with an extra day this year, the month feels like it flew right by as we head full steam into March with a super full calendar of activities.

Next week, we will be having a spirit week to celebrate our school. Monday is pajamas day, Tuesday is decades day (your choice to dress as a child from the 50's, 60's, 70's, 80's, or 90's), Wednesday is crazy hair day, Thursday is surfer/beach day, and Friday will be a chance for students to wear their PVPV Rawlings shirts. I'd like to thank the PVPV/Rawlings student council for organizing our spirit days.

Of course, the week culminates with the community carnival sponsored by Lazzara Orthodontics on Saturday, March 7th from noon to 4pm. It's really an amazing event that the entire community looks forward to every year. Our PTO goes above and beyond every year, and this year is no different.

To top it all off, our field days are taking place in March this year. We are looking forward to our students having an opportunity to compete with other classes and demonstrate good sportsmanship. Be sure to come out and support your child's class during this great event! Special thanks to Coach Sparks, and Coach Harden for organizing these events!

As always, it's a true honor to serve as principal of this school. I cannot thank the staff, teachers, and parents enough for all of your hard work and dedication to our Sea Turtle Community.

No-Phone-Zone

Florida law prohibits using a handheld “wireless communication device” while operating a vehicle in any school zone, school crossing, or work zone. The definition of a wireless communication device is broad and includes cellphones, tablets, laptops, and similar devices.

Notes from the Clinic

Please be sure to empty your voicemail boxes! The clinics at both PV and Rawlings cannot leave voicemails about sick children if inboxes are full. It is very important that the nurses can get in touch with you and that your child is picked up in a timely manner.

URGENT

The St. Johns County School District and the local Department of Health are working together to follow the recommended guidelines of the CDC regarding Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19). This guidance offers specific steps for school staff, parents, and students to take during the current low-risk conditions, as well as for more severe conditions. It is recommended, that based on current conditions, students and staff with flu-like illness stay home until at least 24 hours after they no longer have a fever or signs of a fever. This should be determined without the use of fever-reducing medications (i.e., any medicine that contains ibuprofen or acetaminophen).

The CDC emphasizes washing hands, respiratory etiquette and staying home when sick:

- Practice good hand hygiene. Students and staff members should wash their hands often with soap and water, especially after coughing or sneezing. Alcohol-based hand sanitizers are also effective.
- Practice respiratory etiquette. Illnesses can spread from person to person in the droplets produced by coughs and sneezes, so it is important to cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. If you don't have a tissue, cough or sneeze into your elbow or shoulder, not into your hands.
- Stay home if you are sick. Keeping sick students home means decreasing the spread of germs to others.

Save the Date: April 2-9, 2020 PVPV stage!!!

The PTO and Fishman Pediatric Dentistry are getting ready for the Spring Scholastic Book Fair with lots of great books!

More information concerning your children's class date and time will be sent home closer to the start of the fair. As always, volunteers are much appreciated! If you are interested in helping please look out for the signup genius or contact Genevieve Miranda at Gen.miranda9@gmail.com.

See you at the Book Fair!

ACE PARENTS – MORNING ACE

Effective immediately following State School Safety Guidelines we have to make some changes to our morning drop off for ACE.

THE FRONT DOORS TO THE CAFETERIA WILL REMAIN LOCKED AT ALL TIMES AND WE WILL OPEN THE DOOR FOR YOU WHEN YOU ARRIVE.

YOU MUST PARK, WALK YOUR STUDENT INTO THE CAFETERIA, SIGN THEM IN AND NOTE THE TIME ON THE SIGN-IN SHEET.

I realize this may be a bit inconvenient and you may have to give yourself a little extra time in the morning but the safety of our children is our priority.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Thank you,
Lynda Wing
Extended Day Coordinator

Hello PVPV/Rawlings Families!

Testing season is here and we are in need of proctors. Our volunteers are such an important part of our success. We ask that you check your schedule and if possible, volunteer for one of our testing times. We are requesting that you include your students' teachers' name in the comment section so that we can be sure to place you in a different classroom. Please consider being a proctor even if your student is in the younger grades and will not be testing. We need YOU!

Thank you for your help with this! We appreciate all that you do!

This year's Kids Heart Challenge is officially over! Our sea turtles did a fantastic job in this year's event. They jumped, played basketball, got their hearts pumping and did an amazing obstacle course during the event week!! I would like to thank our families and their generosity to the Kids Heart Challenge. We raised $9,500 for the American Heart Association to help save lives. Our top fundraiser for the school is lyla Vaughn, who raised $1,025! Congratulations lyla! Thank you all for another successful event.

Tips for Reading Success

Beginning Edition

March 2020

PVPV-Rawlings Elementary

Book Picks

Read-aloud favorites

■ Frankly, Frannie (AJ Stern)

Frannie is still in elementary school, but she's ready for a real job. During a field trip to the local radio station, she might get her chance. The radio host is missing—in the middle of his show!

She's determined to fill in, with hilarious results. Book one in the Frankly, Frannie series.

■ The Great Gran Plan (Elli Woollard)

What do you get when you cross the Three Little Pigs with Little Red Riding Hood? A picture book adventure where the big bad wolf is plotting to eat Granny, and a pig is on a mission to rescue her! (Also available in Spanish.)

■ Bring Me Some Apples and I'll Make You a Pie: A Story About Edna Lewis (Robbin Gourley)

Edna was raised on a Virginia farm where she learned to cook with foods her family grew, including apples. This true story tells how she grew up to become an award-winning chef who was known for using farm-fresh ingredients.

■ The Truth About Bears: Seriously Funny Facts About Your Favorite Animals (Maxwell Eaton III)

A trio of bear narrators—polar, brown, and black—add humor to this nonfiction book. Your child will discover where bears live, how big they are, and what their tracks look like. Includes cartoon illustrations and easy-to-read text, maps, and diagrams.

Writing about me

"Personal narrative" is just a fancy term for a true story about the person your child knows best—herself! She's learning to write that kind of story in school, and you can help her at home with these activities.

Outstanding openings

A strong opening makes readers want to keep reading. Ask your youngster to name something your family did recently (say, visited a museum). Then, each of you can write two opening sentences for a story about it. Write one that doesn't give much information ("We went to a museum") and one that's more inviting ("My favorite museum has a giant elephant statue"). Trade papers, and tell which sentence you each like better and why.

Details

Vivid details paint pictures for readers. You and your child could each secretly think of a topic and write three sentences that give details about it. If your youngster picks music class, details might include

"The piano has smooth black and white keys," "We shake shiny bells while we sing," and "Sometimes we dance to music." Read your sentences aloud, and try to guess each other's topic.

Excellent endings

It's common for new writers to wrap up a story with "Then we went home" or "Then we went to bed." Work together to write a more creative final sentence for a story about your day. ("The March wind howled outside, and we fell asleep hoping to dream about spring.")♥

A celebration of reading

March 2 is Read Across America Day. Celebrate with your youngster by using books to learn about different places and languages in our country. Here's how:

- Look for a library book set in a different part of the country. Depending on where you live, your child could read about a youngster growing up in a seaside town, a mountain village, or a big city. As you read together, encourage him to compare his life to the character's—how are they similar and different?
- Many languages are spoken in America! Ask a librarian to help you find a book with words in two languages, including the one your family speaks at home. You and your child could learn a few words in the other language and use them in conversations.♥

Use your knowledge bank

Your youngster's brain holds a key to better reading comprehension—his “bank” of knowledge. Try these strategies that will help him use what he already knows to understand new information.

Before. Unlock your child's knowledge by doing a book preview together. Look at the pictures, and ask him what they make him think of. He might say a photo of a bulldozer reminds him of a construction site in your neighborhood. Then you could ask what other construction vehicles he thinks the book might mention.

During. Keep your youngster on the lookout for familiar and unfamiliar information while you read to him. He could write “I knew that!” to stick on a page that mentions a bulldozer scooping dirt and “Cool new fact!” to put on a page that explains what a forklift does.

After. Go back to the pages your child marked, and let him tell you what he learned. Did he find a new fact about something that was familiar? He might say he discovered that some bulldozers have wheels instead of tracks. ♥

Parent to Parent

Write a nonfiction book

My son Samuel loves nonfiction books. He especially seems to enjoy the diagrams and other graphics. One day, after we'd read a book about sea animals, I noticed him drawing and labeling a diagram of our house. I asked what he was doing, and he explained that he was writing his own nonfiction book about our pets.

Samuel's diagram showed our cat lounging in a sunny window and our cockatiel on her perch. Next, he wrote a page comparing cats and birds. It was adorable—he wrote that you can snuggle with a cat, but a bird can ride on your shoulder.

He stapled the pages together and drew a book cover. Next, Samuel is going to write a nonfiction book about soccer. ♥

Q&A Reading to siblings

Q My daughters, ages 4 and 6, have very different interests. Do you have any tips for picking books to read aloud that they'll both enjoy?

A Here's an idea: Ask each child to choose a library book she thinks the other would like. Your little one might pick a story about origami for her big sister, and your older daughter may choose a story about rock collecting for your younger one. They'll learn kindness, and they'll be more inclined to listen to stories they picked out.

Then, when you choose books, keep in mind that your older child may enjoy a story that's too young for her if it's on a favorite topic. And your little one will find it easier to pay attention to a harder book that matches her interests. Finally, broaden their interests by selecting books on topics unfamiliar to both children. ♥

Fun with Words

What doesn't belong?

Which word doesn't sound like the others—button, bean, noodle, or bow? If your youngster said noodle, she's paying attention to beginning sounds (noodle is the only word that doesn't begin with the b sound). Play this game to help her practice hearing sounds in words.

Let your child fill a box with three objects having the same beginning sound (rattle, raisins, remote) and one that starts with a different sound (bottle).

Then, you pick the item that doesn't belong in the box (bottle). Or you might deliberately make a mistake (rattle). Can your youngster correct you? Now you refill the box, and have her figure out which of your objects doesn't belong.

Variations: Choose items that share an ending sound (like -en as in mitten) or vowel sound (perhaps short a as in cap). ♥

SUMMER MARINE SCIENCE PROGRAM

Parents,

Applications for the summer Marine Science Program will be passed out by science teachers at all schools during the week of February 10th. Applications will be due back to science teachers by February 28th. Applications can also be downloaded at any time from the website prior to April 6th at <http://www-grms.stjohns.k12.fl.us/> and click on the Marine Science link. The link also will have a complete day by day curriculum for each grade level, parent information, and a video from last year's program.

This summer program is available to all students currently in grades five through seven and has been sponsored by the school district since 1982. Three eight day sessions are held at Gamble Rogers Middle School with bus transportation provided. The dates for the three sessions this summer will be June 1st through June 11th, June 15th through June 25th, and June 29th through July 9th (Monday-Thursday). Small classes of 12-14 students are separated by grade level. All instructors in the program are St. Johns County School District teachers.

The Marine Science Program is a carefully designed experience for responsible students who are interested in learning about our local marine environments. Learning is "hands on" in the field with students kayaking, canoeing, boating, hiking, snorkeling, sailing, windsurfing, surfing, SUP, (stand up paddleboarding), etc. Specific grade level activities and curriculum are attached to the applications and are also available from the website.

More information about the program can be had by emailing Kristina Bransford at marinescienceprogram@stjohns.k12.fl.us .
